Rocky Mountain Power Foundation grant supports homework assistance program for students

GLENROCK, Wyo. — The Rocky Mountain Power Foundation has awarded a $2,500 grant to the Boys & Girls Club of Central Wyoming to help support Power Hour, a program for 6- to 18-year-old students in Glenrock and Douglas.

“The Boys & Girls Club of Central Wyoming has been a big contributor to the community through its educational programs, and we're pleased to continue our support of an organization that positively affects so many lives,” said Leslie Blythe, Rocky Mountain Power customer and community manager.

“Thank you to the Rocky Mountain Power Foundation for its generous grant to support our Power Hour,” said Ashley Bright, Boys & Girls Club of Central Wyoming executive director. “The grant will enable many of our young members in Douglas and Glenrock become more successful in their educational endeavors.”

The Glenrock and Douglas branches are growing daily, with 152 members in Glenrock and 151 members in Douglas, due to the leadership of Kay Taylor, Glenrock Branch director; Tiffany Smith, Douglas Branch director; and Kristine Koss, Converse County Area director.
