UNOPPOSED MOTION TO AMEND PROCEDURAL SCHEDULE

Pursuant to Section 16 of the Rules of Practice & Procedure of the Public Service Commission of Wyoming (the “Commission”), Rocky Mountain Power (the “Company”) respectfully moves the Commission to amend the deadlines established in the Commission’s Scheduling Order Nunc Pro Tunc, (“Scheduling Order”), issued August 18, 2017, in this Docket. All Parties in this docket were given notice of this Motion before filing and at the time of filing the following Parties have authorized the Company to represent support for this Motion: the Office of Consumer Advocate, the Wyoming Industrial Energy Consumers, the Northern Laramie Range Alliance, and the Interwest Energy Alliance, collectively the “Parties,” and have agreed to the following:

1. After the Scheduling Order was issued August 18, 2017, Congress introduced proposed tax reform legislation that, among other things, proposes a reduction in the corporate federal income tax rate. This could affect the projected customer benefits of the Company’s proposed wind repowering project. In pre-filed testimony, Parties testify that, at this time, there is uncertainty about this issue.

2. Rocky Mountain Power and the Parties have met informally to discuss resolution of this proceeding, including whether it is reasonable to delay the deadlines in the Scheduling Order to gain more certainty on potential tax reform legislation. Legislation is now being considered by the U.S. Congress and there is an expectation that final action on tax reform legislation could occur by the end of the year. Rocky Mountain Power and the Parties therefore agree that a short extension of the deadlines in the Scheduling Order is reasonable to allow an assessment of the effects of tax reform on the economics of the wind repowering project.

3. Rocky Mountain Power proposes that the Commission amend the deadlines in the Scheduling Order as follows: vacate the hearing scheduled January 9-11, 2018; add Company supplemental testimony – February 2, 2018; intervenor supplemental response testimony – March 12, 2018; Company supplemental rebuttal/intervenor cross answer testimony – March 30, 2018; deadline to exchange exhibits – April 10, 2018; deadline to file exhibit books / pre-hearing reports - April 13, 2018; pre-hearing conference – April 20, 2018; hearings – April 25-27, 2018.

4. Rocky Mountain Power will file supplemental testimony that includes an updated economic analysis on a project-by-project basis, reflecting:

a. determinative actions by Congress on tax reform, if known by December 31, 2017; and, if not yet known, the lowest effective corporate tax rate proposal pending or passed by either chamber of Congress as of December 31, 2017, and any provisions impacting the production tax credit still under consideration;

b. official forward price curves effective as of January 1, 2018, or the most recent official price curve available;

c. scenario analyses using assumptions for, at a minimum: 1) low gas/no CO₂, and 2) medium gas/medium CO₂; and

d. updates for known changes in wind repowering costs and performance, and projected changes in CO₂ costs.

5. Discovery turn-around times shall be ten (10) calendar days until March 12, 2018, or best efforts, and five (5) calendar days until March 30, 2018, or best efforts.

WHEREFORE, Rocky Mountain Power respectfully requests that the Commission extend the deadlines and modify its Scheduling Order as set forth herein.

Respectfully submitted this 14th day of December, 2017.
